for Polluting Lick Creek-Fort Wayne Sentinel Mulcted. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

DELPHI, Ind., June 8 .- The General Assembly of the Associate Presbyterian Church met at Farmington, Pa., the latter part of May and decided to establish an educational institution for the church and fixed on Sleeth, in this county, as the location. The friends of the church in this county pledged enough money for the purchase of the ground and the construction of sufficient buildings to start the institution. The church throughout the other States in the Union pledged sufficient endowment to place it on its feet. The Associate Presbyterian Church is not one of the largest religious organizations in membership, but it is made up of a substantial and conservative element that represent a great deal of money. Twenty-five years ago the church had an educational institution in Pennsylvania, but for some reason it was permitted to die, since which time the organization has been without any recognized educational institution. Since it become known that the church has agreed to locate the institution at Sleeth, six miles north of this city, a move has been made looking to the location of the institution at this place, and Delphi business men will attempt to persuade the committee that has charge of the matter that Delphi and not Sleeth is the proper place for the college. Prominent citizens have already pledged the old fair grounds, which comprise twenty acres of the finest land in this vicinity, located high up or the banks of Deer creek, liberally studded with beautiful trees and admirably surrounded. If the college be located here the water works could be extended to the institution and electric lights furnished. It SETTLERS is highly probable that the inducements offered by Delphi will induce the committee to change the location to this place.

NEW YORK, June 8.-The greatest exhi bition of long-distance riding in the history of cycling between Chicago and this city terminated at 1:56 o'clock this morning, a the junction of Sixtieth street and th boulevard. The great race, which require so much careful preparation, started from Chicago Wednesday morning, at 9 o'clock and was scheduled to cover the one thou sand miles intervening between that city and New York in seventy-two hours. The record has been broken and the distance 7 a. m. 30.32 64 covered by six hours and forty-seven min- | 7 p. m. 30.17 utes better time. In organizing this relay a departure was made by a distinction in the colors worn by the riders. The military was represented by "blue" and the postal service by "red." The race would have been entirely devoid of its military feature, which rendered it so popular, had it not been for the action of Major General Nelson A. Miles. The riders, in their distinguishing colors, bore messages, which were delivered on arrival here. Mr. McMad, Postmaster Dayton's private secretary, received the message by the "red, warded by Postmaster Hesing, of Chicago, and forty-seven minutes later General Miles received from the "blue" the message from General Merritt. The run through the Syracuse district was made more interesting by the offer of a prize for the best time through that section, which was won by the "red." Albany was passed four hours and fourteen minutes ahead of the schedule. Sing Sing was reached at 12:08 o'clock this morning, Tarrytown nine-teen minutes later and Yonkers at 1:09. Forty-seven minutes later the great crowd which had gathered at the boulevard and Sixtleth street were relieved of their anxiety, when L. D. Munger, representing the victorious color, "red," wheeled into the riding academy and delivered the message from Postmaster Hesing to Postmaster Dayton's secretary, Mr. McMad. A cheer was raised, which was renewed again and again in appreciation of the great work performed by the cyclers. In all it required over five hundred riders and substiutes to carry the message. Assistant Postmaster Gaylor said this afternoon that he did not know how it was that no letter came from Postmaster Hesing to Postmaster Dayton this morning. but simply that none did come. Postmaster Dayton is in Washington, but his secretary was at the appointed place for the end of the bicycle race. The postoffice wheelmen, however, turned out to have a letter for from the army. Whether his was due to a change in the plan or was simply accident-al, Mr. Gaylor had no means of knowing, The St. Louis Read Races. ST. LOUIS, June 8.-In the fifth annual Forest Park road races over a new and fast twenty-mile course to-day, eighty-nine wheelman were entered. Twenty-four valuable prizes were contested for. Chicago, Denver and several other cities were represented. Promptly at 4 o'clock the tenminute handicap men were lined up and sent off in good order, as were the others on down to the scratch men. There were only four scratch men, viz.: A. G. Harding, St. Louis; E. A. Grath, St. Louis; W. Hamilton, Denver, and Tracy Holmes, Chicago. Harding punctured his tire in the second lap and was compelled to drop out while several others had falls or were exhausted and stopped. Nobody was seriously injured. The following won the prizes: First-W. W. Hamilton, Denver, scratch Second-Tracy Holmes, Chicago, scratch. Time, 54:18, Third-E. A. Grath, St. Louis, scratch. J. C. Weidner, St. Louis, an unattached whelman, with a handicap of seven minutes, won the race.

The McLeod-Wittmer Match Here. The approaching match between Dan McLeod and Charles Wittmer, which is to take place at English's Opera House Tuesday night, June 18, will attract a large audience. McLeod made a host of friends when he wrestled Hale here, and hundreds will back him in this and any other match, for he is a wonderful wrestler. The coming match will be a mixed one, the first bout to be decided by the toss of a coin, and the hird, if necessary, the same way. McLeod is the actual world's champion catch-as-catch-can wrestler, while Wittmer claims the Graeco-Roman title. Each man will have his style in one bout, and McLeod thinks he can throw the big fellow at Graeco-Roman. In their last match McLeol broke Wittmer's rib by accident, but the Cincinnati man is all right and strong again. Both wrestlers are training hard for the match, which will be a veritable battle of giants.

The Tramp Nuisance.

The tramp nuisance weather becomes warmer. From all over the country come reports of the depredations of these human parasites and the problem what to do with the rascals is being earnestly discussed in many places. A gang of about fifty tramps has been in complete possession of barns and old houses in Baltimore county, Maryland, and from the Berkshires in Massachusetts news is received of a meeting of citizens called for the purpose of planning some way of relief from a similar scourge there. It is est mated that in the country at large thera are not less than sixty thousand habitual at a daily co t of about $30,000, which comes, of course, out of the earnings of honest workers and taxpayers. In towns and villages and in the smaller cities there is found a need of wood-yards and lodges, with rigid enforcement of the laws against begging and vagrancy. For the punishment of the incurables the new Massachusetis system promises to be as ther ughgoing as any. The State has purchased two thousand acres of cheap but improvable land. The soil is both marshy and rocky, but it can be ditched and cleared and made profitable for agriculture. To this farm every tramp legally convicted of vagrancy will be sent for two years. He will be employed in building roads and houses on the farm, in digging drains, in clearing, ploughing, sowing, reaping and in all the labor of a farm that has to be created from a wilderness. The work will be healthful and not more severe than that which is undertaken voluntarily by the thousands of brave men who yearly take up horesteads on the frontier. The tramps will be ecoverted into laborers and will be well fed and comfortably clothed.

Was It Croker! New York Commercial Advertiser. The English newspapers are much agitated over a mistaken identity which nearly caused the dismissal of more than one unfortunate newspaper man. About two weeks ago the Prince of Wales supposedly appeared at one of the local race meetings in a most extraordinary costume-regard-ing it from Waies's point of view. he wore a shiny silk hat, somewhat balanced to the side, and sack coat, and he walked with a certain swagger. There was no doubt but that it was the Prince, and his presence was not only announced from the were described by several dress reporters. Mr. Jerome K. Jerome took the matter up and censured the Prince severely for his American method of rig, which, it was stated, was peculiar to a species of politician whose tents were pitched on the broad prairies of Fourteenth street. Now. it appears that the Prince that very day attended in town one or two concerts and attended in town one or two concerts and the laying of several cornerstones, and an indignant dental from the head clerk of Mariborough House has been issued to the various newspapers throughout the United Kingdom. The man who was cheered and saluted was not the Prince, but an American. Was it our own Mr. Croker? There is more than a certain resemblance, and if is more than a certain resemblance, and, if so, I wonder how he appreciated the flunk-eyism of the English people and whether he felt for one day that he was indeed again an uncrowned king.
